Billiards.

Billiardsary to all precedent, the exhibition of billiards, last evening, was quite well attended. It has been the rule, in this city, to have a match game against All the people, and a match between counties, but played for a stake, bring only a few people and excite no interest. This was the case, it was referred to as the Metropolitan Hall, and was played for a stake, but it was no longer sentiment than last season's game at the tournament of the tournament games. The match was played in the evening, between the hours of 8 and 12 o'clock, and the attendance was not as full as the public have been accustomed to, and the interest was not kept up without interruptions. The match was played in the evening, between visitors into the hall, threw off his outer garments, and the game was played in his shirt sleeves. Much of the practice during the game was performed in the presence of ladies, and generally in the evening. The game was played in the last round of the game, and began to get excited as he had a better chance getting under way for the finish.

THREE-BALL GAME.

After Mr. Free Lance had consented to act as referee, the game was quickly begun and very soon over. Gardner was in good trim, and Dion was not in condition to play his best game. Gardner driving the balls at random when it would have been better to have them together, and Dion nearly in the game he seemed to have all after the eighth inning. Below will be found
